

RIVERS LAND TRUST

Keeping our wild & working lands forever abundant

Raven Ridge Conservation Easement

The forest at Raven Ridge is extremely diverse, and WRLT was astounded to find almost every type of tree that grows in our area on the property. Douglas fir, western hemlock, tanoak, madrone, alder, Port Orford cedar, western red cedar, myrtle, Oregon ash, Sitka spruce and even the golden chinquapin make an appearance in this forest. The property is bordered by a several hundred acre stand of old-growth forest owned by the Bureau of Land Management which has been set aside as a Late Successional Reserve, and the forest at Raven Ridge will add to this block of old growth forest as it matures.

Donated by a local resident, this 40-acre easement of forest and wetlands, will also help to protect Frog Lake. Perched at over 2,000 feet in elevation, the lake provides habitat for waterfowl like wood ducks, bufflehead, egrets and herons and aquatic species including rough-skinned newts and several species of frogs. The headwater stream on the property feeds into Indian Creek, a tributary to the Lower Rogue River that is important for salmon and steelhead.

Working together to keep the irreplaceable lands and waters of the southern Oregon coast forever wild and abundant. We believe our enduring environment, economic prosperity, and rural coastal culture are connected. From Tenmile Lakes to Brookings, we conserve and steward natural spaces people and wildlife depend on for clean air, fresh water, and healthy habitat. And by partnering with willing landowners, we help working farms, forests, and ranches preserve their legacy today for future generations.
